During the pandemic we chose a path not followed by our competitors. Our factory was always open, we never slowed down, and never laid anyone off. We hired additional machinists, invested in the ongoing training of our people and significant capital equipment that increased our capability and capacity while providing uncompromised quality.

We are keenly aware that our success in satisfying our customers resulted in unprecedented orders during 2022 and as a result extended our normal lead times. We thank you for your understanding during that time. We once again made investments and in early 2023, those investments allowed us to return to lead times that you have historically expected. We are absolutely committed to understanding and meeting your needs for now and well into the future.

We encourage you to discuss your individual requirements with our Customer Service personnel or with one of our direct Field Sales Representatives. We value and encourage your feedback as it guides us to understand your needs. We are grateful you have allowed us to serve the needs of your business and wish you and your business continued success for 2023 and beyond.

Thank you, From all of us at Precision Punch & Tooling
